I am Chinese, [REDACTED], 70kg in weight [REDACTED]), normally short hair colour black, brown eyes, white skin type for Chinese. I was born at the single child generation so I am the child of my family. I enjoyed the full love from my parents, grandparents and relatives and I am sure you will receive even more. I studied electrical engineering and I am working as an Electric Engineer. I am determined and quite calm, enjoying analysing the facts and data before making a decision. I am also thoughtful and warm, I like to take care of my friends and make people around me feel comfortable. I can play the piano and quite enjoy the music, one of my favourite is musical. I do not like any kind of outdoor activities, though I enjoy watching tennis. I personally do not have any religion, but I believe in the existing of spirit. In my life, I think people are the most important thing, no matter families, friends, colleagues, even strangers. I love life and exploring the different sides and more possibilities, that's also the reason why I came to UK [REDACTED].

When you see this message, congratulations on becoming an adult. I believe you should be able to fully understand what happened, what effort your parent suffered to bring you to this world, so firstly always show your love to them. From my perspective, I hope life treats you kind and you can always feel the happiness. Also, I hope you enjoyed your current life, but also have the willing to explore more of the world, no matter travelling, studying abroad, etc. All in all, wish you a good life.
