My childhood was great until my parents got divorced when I was ten years old. I am an only child for my mother. My dad got remarried and divorced again. I have a stepbrother [REDACTED]. Even though my parents divorced, family is the heart of everything. They are always there to support me whenever I need any sort of help. My religious background is Alevism which is a minority religion in Turkey and Kurdistan. However, I believe that there is a superior being somewhere. I would say my personality is that I am very organised, calm, good at reading people and a diligent person. I have changed careers twice previously from law to being a prison officer and now a teacher. I am currently an early career teacher. I choose this because I find teaching very rewarding as my primary school teachers impacted my life. I believe that education is vital, and everyone should study. I am not sure what I would do next as a career in the future, but I am always up for a new challenge. I am not sure how long I would stay in teaching for, as life is full of surprises. For A Levels I have studied IT, Turkish and Social Anthropology. Then, I went to study a LLB law degree and two master's in law. I enjoyed these subjects because I am naturally talented in law and remembering case law in detail for exams. I do love employment law. Travelling is very important to me in life. It has made me an open-minded person. This is because I get to see new places, meet new people, and experience new cultures as well as eat delicious foods.

I hope your life so far has been everything you could possibly imagine so far, and all your birthdays have been extraordinary! It's a very strange but amazing feeling to know that I could help your mum or dad achieve what they wanted the most, you. The reason I decided to donate was to help other families start a family of their own because whilst travelling I have met a few couples who was not able to have any children for various reasons. So, I decided to donate and give the gift of life to you. Currently I am a teacher, my advice would be whatever you do, you should study always as education is a powerful opportunity and do what makes you feel happy. If one day you would like to contact me, I have no problem doing so, we can meet and talk, I am sure that will be very nice for all - I am a normal down to earth guy. Life is hard and nothing is ever easy, but nothing worth getting is ever easy. I hope that you have a great life and lots of experiences and look forward to hearing your story someday. I am always available, if you wish to get in contact, I am sure I will enjoy meeting you. If the world was full of people like us, the world would be a better place.
