Ever since I was a child I was very sociable with others and I loved learning new things every day. I had this strong desire to know and learn more and more every day.

Since I was a child, I have been a very thoughtful person, who carefully considers his choices and carefully observes the world around him. When I did not understand something, I was eager to ask the reasons and the causes.

I was raised in a very religious and Christian family. My family did everything for me and always helped me. They tried to give me as much affection as they could. I have to admit that my family is truly a special family.

My family passed on the values of Christianity to me. Indeed I am christian too, but I have always respected all the other religions and people belonging to other religions.

At school I was very good at literature, poetry, mathematics and natural sciences. However I have to say that I have always detested technical drawing and economics.

But above all, history and philosophy were my favorite subjects. I have to admit ever since I was a child I have been a huge fan of history , especially ancient history.

As I believe that the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans had truly surpassed themselves and had achieved a standard of living and a level of technology that was incredible for those times. And it took about 2000 years to reach that comfort and technology again in Europe, as much of the knowledge of the ancients had been lost during the dark Middle Ages. I even participate to historical reenactments.

In regard to my personality I would describe myself like a perfectionist, curious and relaxed person. Indeed I always like to make things better in life and at work and I have always been a huge desire to learn new knowledge since when I was a child. On the other hand I am a very relaxed person who loves enjoy the leisure time.

I have several different hobbies: reading novels and books, riding horses, playing chess, doing sport, travels, movies and theater, historical reenactments .

In regard to movies I am indeed a big fan of cinema and theater. My favourite movie is Braveheart and my favourite book is Robinson Crusoe of Daniel Defoe.

I don't have a genre of music that I like mostly, but I can like all genres of music, all kind of music if I really like the song. I believe what is most important in music is the message which conveys to people. It does not matter the genre. I believe what is most important in life is to be happy and finding out what is our own talent, and once found it pursue it and get it.

I wanted to give someone else the opportunity to become a parent, because I believe it is the greatest happiness in life and I wish this person could have the greatest joy and crowning achievement in becoming a parent.

When I were 18 years old I would have liked to receive the advice that everyone has an own talent.

However I discovered that on my own. The biggest difficulty in finding our own talent lies in understanding ourselves and knowing who we really are, what we really want. Only in this way we could be able to find our talent once we reached the adulthood, pursue it and obtain it.
