I see myself as a hard minded young man, but my mind gets overwhelmed by my soft heart.
I may seem like an easygoing free man, but I love to plan ahead, what's a dream without a solid plan?

Since I was a child I always have been curious about the world outside.
Maybe because I had a globe lamp on my bedside?
I am so fascinated to discover new places, meet new people and know different cultures.
I lived in 4 different countries and explored dozens of those.

I do not believe in any Gods.

I am cooking for passion more than for money.

I know from my personal experience how difficult could be to conceive a baby for many reasons.
My partner and I have been trying for almost a decade and currently we are waiting for our first child.
That's why where I am.

Hello little one,

You do not know me but we share a very special experience.

I am sure your parents have told you about a very long and uphill road and that's where they found me.

I have the privilege to be part of this process your parents went through and as an end result they had you, a beautiful bundle of joy and happiness.

Be kind, be trustworthy, be loyal, be true, be graceful, be loving!

I guess you can call me little helper.
